[Republican A. P. Leased Wire] BOSTON, Sept. 26.—Boston made it five straight from Pittsburgh today, winning both games of a double header. Nehf, in the first game, and Allen in the second, pitched gilt edged ball for the Braves. Pittsburgh getting only four hits in each game. Allen made his first appearance on the mound in more than a month, having been ill with tonsillitis. Score: First game:

Vic Suier.

Manager Jimmy Callahan of the Pittsburgh Pirates is very eager to get hold of Vic Suier, crack first baseman of the Chicago Cubs, and it is rumored that he has offered Wegman Pitchers Kautlicher and Harmon in exchange. In the rebuilding of the Pittsburgh team the big gap Callahan has to fill is at first base.

Prize Offered for First Deer Brought to Phoenix This Year

PRICE AND GRIFFITH WINNERS OF LAST YEAR'S PRIZE

The deer season for the state of Arizona will open Sunday morning, October 1. Hundreds of hunters will take advantage of the opening day in an effort to bring home the first buck and win the handsome 30-20 Winchester carbine rifle offered by Pinner & Robinson, sporting goods dealers. Ever since this trophy has been awarded to the lucky hunter bringing in the first deer of the season, it has been a source of wonder and excitement to the people of the state. The lucky man next year. Bill Tremaine was the first man to win the rifle. He won it two years ago, bringing in a large buck a day after the season opened. Last year the rifle was won by Price and Griffith, who killed two big bucks up near Mormon Flat on the opening day and before 5:30 that night the deer were shown in the window of the store where they had been brought to receive the prize. Other parties kept returning all that night and even early the next morning with their kill, but it was too late to win the carbine. It is now a very puzzling proposition to pick a winner this year, as hundreds have already started to leave for the mountains and nearby big game hunting grounds, where they can have their meat all staked out ready for slaughter Sunday morning early. Some of the local sportsmen claim that they can leave here late Saturday night and get to a good hunting place before sunrise on the opening day. Price and Griffith, the two youths who brought in the winning deer last season, have left. W. L. Pinner, owner of the firm of Pinner & Robinson, says that he doesn't look for the first deer until early Sunday morning, but nevertheless there will be some one on hand to check in the prize-winner if it is brought in Sunday.

had to score for the first heat in tenth position and finished fifth to Ridgmark, the second choice. In the second mile Zomrect took the lead and was tipped by Ridgmark. To the half Zomrect stepped in 1:01 1/2. Ridgmark breaking before getting there. All through the last quarter Zomrect came under restraint, but he took a record of 2:06 1/2. He won the next two heats easily. Harrod's Creek had no stiff opposition in the stakes for 2-year-old trotters. Little Frank D. won the 2:12 pace in straight heats, getting a record of 2:04 1/2 in the second.

RAY MINERS CINCH SECOND PENNANT IN COPPER LEAGUE

By BOB GIBSON

RAY, Sept. 24.—The Ray Miners won the final game on the local ground, defeating the Millers by a score of 6 to 5. The Miners looked to have secured a sure thing, but hit Bromley, the Miners' southpaw, hard and with poor support given him had scored five runs. Johnson on the other hand was invincible until the seventh when Galena's error allowed one run. In the eighth four hits and errors by Garrity and Rose, a hit batsman and two bases on balls scored five runs and caused Johnson to retire in favor of Fentress. Delhi pitched the ninth for the Miners. Today's win gave the second half of the championship to Ray and as they won the first half there will be no post season series. There is a possibility that a few more games will be played although final arrangements have not yet been made.

TIMES CHANGE; BIG EASTERN SCHOOLS GO TO WORK EARLY

How times have changed in eastern football! A few years ago it was considered almost unportsmanlike to hold preliminary gridiron practice more than a week or two in advance of the opening of the college term. But this year a Harvard Yale Princeton began strenuous work almost immediately after Labor Day, and all the other colleges of the east, big and little, are doing the same thing.

They all give the same reason for it—self defense. The forward pass and the open game in general have given the little fellows an attack that makes them extremely dangerous. And since the big teams are up and quickly selected for the opening games the big fellows can no longer take any chances with them. And the big colleges have been making good use of their time, for already they are prepared to handle the new tactics. The leading teams of the east are probably a week further advanced right now than they were at the same time a year ago.

But it has remained for Harvard to spring the surprise. The crimson coaches have announced that they will hold their first secret practice on Monday. So the advocates of practice are open to the entire student body seem destined to have a hard time of it. Occasionally they make converts among coaches, but a new coach invariably goes back to the old system of working as much as possible behind closed gates.

Harvard Coaches Have Big Task to Fill Vacancies

Possibly because there is no prospect that Percy Haughton will be able to add the coaching staff before the middle of October is the reason for the unprecedented haste at Harvard. Not only were the crimson candidates the first to begin preliminary work, but they also have the biggest squad in the country today. There are now nearly one hundred candidates for the team, and by the time the university opens there will probably be 150 ambitious youngsters trying for the team, not counting the candidates for the freshmen eleven.

Leo Leary, a great end in his day, is now wearing the mantle temporarily doffed by Haughton. He ought to do well, because he has been Haughton's right hand man for the last half dozen years and has done much of the active coaching. If it is possible to construct a winner without the personality of Haughton then Leary should be able to do it.

Harvard coaches are chiefly concerned over their back field problem. And well they may be, for graduation took all four of the 1915 regulars. Watson at quarterback, the great Mahan at full back, and King and Boles, the two halfbacks. In addition to the loss of these regulars Harvard has suffered the loss of her best backfield substitutes, McKinlock, Wingate and Rollins. The line, too, was badly hit.

Scarcity of Pivot Stars Bothers Eastern Tutors

In one respect Harvard and Yale are struggling with a common difficulty. Both are trying to find a capable quarterback. Last year Harvard had in Watson one of the cleverest field generals in years. Watson was not a brilliant player. In fact, he seldom ran with the ball, and never did anything exceptional in handling kicks in the back field. But in the possession of gray matter and ability to pick the proper plays accurately and quickly he had no equal in the east. The coaches think they have a capable man for the post in Robinson, who substituted some last year. At Yale, Tad Jones, the new coach, is devoting most of his spare time to the discovery or development of a quarterback. Jones was one of Yale's greatest quarterbacks himself some eight years ago, and he knows the importance of the position. What he wants is a man who can play the position well and who is a leader. Yale hasn't had such a man for some time, and at the end of two weeks of preliminary practice he isn't yet in sight. Van Nostrand, who was the final selection for this position last year, is still available, but apparently Jones wants to improve on him.

Yale men are greatly relieved that Harry Legore is with the squad and eligible for football. It will be remembered that Legore was removed from the team in the middle of the 1915 season because it was discovered that he had violated Yale's rules regarding summer baseball. His loss broke up the backfield, and there was fear that he would not be allowed to return to the game this fall. But now that he is back he gives Yale a splendid kicker, one who can drop and place kick as well as punt, an expert in the use of the forward pass and a handy man for all other departments of play.

Return of Braden and Legore Will Help Yale

It is now reported that Braden, the wonderful end who was ineligible last year, will be allowed to play in the backfield this fall. The coaches have visions of him starring as a halfback. He ought to be a good running mate for Legore. The Yale practices have been developing the men pretty fast, so fast that Coach Jones has decided to begin scrimmages next week.

Princeton, Cornell and Pennsylvania are in the same precarious position as Harvard and Yale, so far as quarterbacks are concerned. They, too, are looking for them, and so far in vain. Princeton lost her star quarterback when Frank Clark graduated last June. He had some capable understudies a year ago of whom Ames appears to be and there is no prospect of his early return. Although Berry made a failure of things last year, it was felt by many critics that if handled differently he would have been a second Stevenson. Under Bob Folsom, the new coach, Berry, if he returns, will get a new chance.
